Hey Iva

Please take a look at the IMs Elvin sent to me yesterday. I am not sure I understand what he means by Biscom and by SQL credentials. Please help.

hey, kristin. Mike Lee assigned your ticket to me last week while i was out on vacation. Before i left on vacation on Tuesday, i reached out to Sean M. to have a new windows server admin account created for you. he created it, but seems to have forgotten to send you the information through Biscom. you should be receiving the credentials shortly.

i mirrored your current SQL rights to the new windows account.

would you happen to have the password for the SSIS packages? i asked Iva weeks ago to reach out to me to setup something called a SQL credential for you guys in order to eliminate the need to use the finadmin account. i never heard back from her. i needed someone to input the password to the SSIS package you tried running a while back this SQL credential will basically impersonate the rights finadmin has to execute SSIS packages
